

DULL BATTLE

Commander of the Army in Blue Assumes the Offensive and Pushes Forward for Decisive Blow at Manassas.

BELL MASSES HIS TROOPS TO MEET THE CHARGE.

Brown Forces in Immense Semi-Circle Line Hills in Great War Game Now On—New Yorkers at the Front.

CORPS HEADQUARTERS, GAINESVILLE, Va., Sept. 4.—The blue and brown armies are facing each other in the battle of Manassas. It is the work of the blue army under Gen. F. D. Grant, operating from Manassas, to strike and drive the brown army under Gen. J. B. Magruder, back through the gap of that name in the Bull Run Mountains.

The zone of hostilities is a strip of Virginia farms five miles wide and fifteen miles long, comprising the territory over which was fought the two battles of Bull Run. Manassas is the southeast point in the zone and Thoroughfare Gap is in the center of its western limit.

At daylight to-day Gen. Grant had established a front across the zone, and pushed his line two-fifths of the way to Thoroughfare. The northern half of this line (Grant's right) is a solid mass of infantry. The southern half (his left wing) is a patrol of cavalry.

It is with the strong right that the blue is to strike. To meet the attack, Gen. Bull has established a line of battle which sweeps in a semi-circle from the zone to the southwestern limits of the zone to Woolsey, on the north. Buckland is less than two miles from the western limit of operations and Woolsey a little more than that distance. Gen. Bell's center is the strongest part of his line.

The detail and position of the two forces when they arranged themselves for battle this morning is as follows:

Army of the Blue.

The blue army under Gen. Grant, First Brigade, commanded by Brig.-Gen. Theodore J. Wint, U. S. A., consisting of five companies of the Fifth U. S. Infantry; First Georgia Infantry; Fifth Massachusetts Infantry; Fifth New Jersey Infantry; Seventy-fourth New York Infantry, marched out on Sunday road to a point between Stone House and Sudley Springs, and thence west across Little Bull Run, where a position was taken up.

Forming on the left of Gen. Wint was the Third Brigade, commanded by Col. Butler D. Price, of the Sixteenth United States Infantry, consisting of six companies of that infantry, the First Maine Infantry, the First Texas Infantry, and the Seventeenth Virginia Infantry. This position was gained by a march from camp by way of Gen. Wint, and thence northwest until the junction with Gen. Wint was effected.

On Manassas Road.

Gen. Russell Frost had command of the Fourth Brigade, consisting of four companies of the Fifth U. S. Infantry, the First Second and Third Connecticut Infantry, the First Separate Company of Connecticut Infantry, and the Reserves of the Artillery and Engineers. He marched on to the front by way of New Market Cross Roads, Chinn House and Grove, and took up a position on high ground on the north of the Manassas road and north of the Warren Pike.

The Second Brigade, commanded by Brig.-Gen. F. S. S. A., and consisting of four companies of the Sixth U. S. Infantry, the First South Carolina Infantry, the First North Carolina Infantry, and the First Virginia Infantry, marched by the way of the Manassas and Gainesville road and took up a position in the vicinity of Wellington.

The cavalry, consisting of eight troops of the Fifth, and two troops of the Sixth U. S. Cavalry, was detached from the main body of the army, and accompanied Gen. Wint, covered the left flank and patrolled as far as Broad Run.

Line of Defense.

The "Brown" army, which, according to the statement, was placed on the defensive, was under the command of Gen. J. B. Magruder. It consisted of the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh, Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth, and Fortieth Regiments of the Army of the Potomac.

Gen. Grant's army, which was in the offensive, was under the command of Gen. F. D. Grant. It consisted of the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, and Fortieth Regiments of the Army of the Potomac.

DOWNS WON'T BE GOVERNOR AGAIN

Declares at the Conference of Republican Leaders To-Day that He Would Not Accept a Renomination.

DOESN'T WANT TO HEAR ANY MORE ABOUT IT.

This Was His Emphatic Reply to Suggestion of a Friend that He Once More Head State Ticket.

Gov. Odell definitely settled that he will not be a candidate for renomination at a conference held to-day at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. One of the up-State leaders suggested that inasmuch as a suitable candidate had not presented himself the Governor make the race again.

"I don't want the place. I wouldn't have it, and I don't want to hear any more about it. Under no circumstances would I again take the nomination."

The leaders in attendance at the conference came from all over the State at the request of the Governor. They were the most intimate political friends, including Senator Malby, Senator Brackett and John Raines, of Rochester. Mr. Payne was also one of the advisers. Senator Brackett and others of the Governor's most enthusiastic supporters said before the session that his nomination would undoubtedly prove acceptable to the rank and file of the party.

So far as could be learned no definite agreement was reached, unless it was that Tim Woodruff should not be named. Lieut.-Col. Higgins appears to be the most likely candidate for the nomination at present, although there is some talk of Hamilton Fish.

Former Gov. Black will act as temporary Chairman of the convention. He has notified Gov. Odell that he cannot be in Saratoga next week.

FOUR AUTOPSIES SHOW HOMICIDES

Deputy Coroner Weston, Who Makes Them, Declares the Police Are Not Properly Investigating Suspicious Cases.

The result of four autopsies performed by Deputy Coroner Weston to-day show, the Deputy Coroner says, that death in each case was caused by homicidal blows. Dr. Weston said he believed the city is experiencing an epidemic of homicides and that the police are not properly investigating them. In but one of the four cases in which Dr. Weston acted to-day has there been an arrest.

This was the case of Joseph Vokalek, fifty years old, of No. 35 East Seventy-third street. Vokalek was found unconscious in front of No. 63 East Seventy-second street. He died later, supposedly of a fractured skull in the Presbyterian Hospital, and the police arrested William Vrbky, twenty-one years old, of No. 310 East Forty-first street, on suspicion of having struck Vokalek. Vrbky has been held to await action by the Coroner.

Two autopsies were performed by Dr. Weston at the Bellevue Hospital. One was that of Daniel Egan, thirty-five years old, who was found dead in bed at No. 26 Bowers, yesterday. One doctor had pronounced death due to natural causes. Dr. Weston found that Egan had died of a hemorrhage of the brain. He pronounced the case one of homicide and notified the Eldridge street police.

The other case at Bellevue was that of Richard Jents, forty-eight years old, a negro, of No. 40 Seventh avenue, who was found dead in a hallway at the corner of Seventh and Broadway. The autopsy in this case showed that Jents had died of a hemorrhage of the brain, and that the head, face and neck were covered with contusions.

Italian's Skull Fractured.

The last autopsy was performed at the Hudson Street Hospital on an Italian, said to be named Guillerio Cimino. The Italian's skull was found to be fractured, and Dr. Weston said this, in his belief, was also a case of homicide.

CHARGED WITH A HOLD-UP.

Police say Prisoner Had a Mask and Blackjack When Arrested.

William Schaeffer, twenty-six years old, who gave his address as No. 114 Grand street, Hoboken, was arraigned before Recorder Stanton to-day on a charge of highway robbery. Otto Peters, of No. 41 First street, said that Schaeffer had held him up on Newark street. Peters shouted for help, and Policeman Gerhardt caught Schaeffer after a sharp chase of several blocks.

TRAVIS WINS ON DUEL USROL LINKS

National Champion Had Poor Luck, but Managed to Dispose of His Opponent in Rather Easy Fashion.

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 4.—The far West and the Atlantic seaboard were represented by the players who composed the pair that opened this year's amateur championship tournament of the United States Golf Association on the links of the Baltusall Golf Club to-day. The players were F. C. Newton, of the Seattle Golf and Country Club, and H. S. Woods, of the Morristown (N. J.) Field Club. Although the start was made early, there was quite a generous gathering of players and spectators in the vicinity of the clubhouse when the first tee off.

Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, national champion for the past three years, who recently returned from abroad with the British championship title, was one of the second pair to go out, his companion being Capt. F. H. Horne, U. S. A., who is entered from the Dyke Meadow Club, of Brooklyn. Other pairs went off in the following order:

W. R. Tuckerham, Chevy Chase Club, Washington, D. C., and S. T. Ramage, of Oil City; P. N. Thomas, Morris County, N. J., and A. Reid, St. Andrews, N. Y.; J. S. Wylie, Sea Beach, N. J., and T. H. Henshaw, Ewanok (Ind.); Jack Manchester, Vt.; B. S. Chase, Oil City, Pa., and G. T. Brokaw, Garden City, L. I.

P. C. Newton, of Seattle, went around in 30 and H. S. Woods in 24. The national champion, Travis, was next to get home, but his round in 31 was not considered a very good performance. He had poor luck at several stages, going out in 42 and returning in 38. Capt. Horne, who played along with him, had 36.

P. N. Thomas did the round in 30, and A. M. Reid, of St. Andrews, equalled the Travis score of 31. With three men still to play, having turned in cards for rounds of 81 each, H. Chandler Egan came in with 80, the best score of the day. The champion says that he has been driving poorly and spoils a chance for 78 by a bad drive for the home hole. Egan's companion on the round, R. H. Henshaw, of Sea Bright, had 35.

GIRL A SUICIDE, CORONER FINDS

New Haven Authorities Abandon Theory that the Young Woman Was the Victim of a Strangler.

(Special to The Evening World.) NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 4.—Coroner Mix filed his report this afternoon in the case of Louise Dubois, whose body was found in the water here, and who was believed to be a murder victim. He finds that the girl committed suicide.

The funeral of Louise Dubois was held yesterday afternoon at her home in Yaleville. The body reached Wallingford from here and was taken to the Dubois home. Later it was brought to the Church of Holy Angels, in South Meriden, where the Rev. Father Cunningham performed the last rites of the Church. Burial was in St. Laurent Cemetery.

Since the mysterious death of the girl many rumors have been circulated concerning her home relations. To correct these stories the brothers of the dead girl issued the following signed statement this morning:

"We, the undersigned, wish to correct the statements made in the papers regarding the home relations of our late sister. We emphatically deny that they were unpleasant, and assert that she had a loving mother, brothers and sisters, and that she did not need to work, as the others did, in the oil business. We feel deeply the injustice and outrage of these statements coming at this time, when our home and hearts are saddened by this bereavement."

"FREDERICK DUBOIS. "GEORGE DUBOIS. "MAY HAVE A CLUE.

The investigation has passed out of the theory stage and there is reason to believe that the authorities have discovered a positive clue. The original theory advanced by the police and supported by the Coroner for several days, that Louise Dubois had committed suicide by throwing herself into the Sound, had been abandoned. The theory was considered untenable after the autopsy by Dr. C. J. Bartlett had established the fact that the lungs of the girl contained but very little water. Had the girl been drowned the lungs would have been completely filled.

The members of the family were subjected to a thorough cross-examination, but they had nothing to tell that offered any clue. It appears that Louise left home last Wednesday afternoon, saying she would visit her friend, Louise Levellie, in Meriden. Miss Levellie stated that Miss Dubois did not come to her house that day and that she had not seen her for three weeks. Miss Levellie, who lives on Sherman avenue, in Meriden, and speaks but little English, said she could not imagine why Louise Dubois should have come to Meriden that day.

George Dubois left his home in the early afternoon and took the train for New Haven to search for his sister. Why he did not go to Meriden to search for her, but to New Haven, although he knew that Miss Levellie lived in the former place, has not been satisfactorily explained.

The authorities seem to pin their hopes on Ernest Lapoint, a young man living at Hampton, N. J., who was the declared lover of Miss Dubois and was supposed to be engaged to her. It was strongly suspected that he had information which would clear the mystery surrounding the death of the girl. He was requested to come here to appear before the coroner and he promised to come, but failed to keep his promise. To-day two members of the local detective force were sent to New Jersey to find Ernest Lapoint and, if possible, to bring him back to New Haven.

JACK IN THE HOLE

Butte Miner, Who Was Knocked Out So Easily by Jim Jeffries, Announces that He Will Not Retire.

Jack Munroe, the Butte miner heavyweight, who was recently knocked out by Champion Jim Jeffries after one minute and a half of fighting in the second round of their battle before the Yosemite A. C., of San Francisco, arrived in town at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon from the coast.

Munroe made the trip from San Francisco to this city alone. With the exception of a discolored eye, Munroe looked in perfect condition and health. An Evening World reporter met Munroe at the Grand Central Depot on his arrival.

"What are your plans for the future?" the reporter asked.

"Well, I intend to continue fighting, as I think I have a chance with the best fellows. I am satisfied that I have improved in my fighting since I fought Sharkey. I was not good enough, however, to beat Jeffries."

"To what do you attribute your quick defeat by Jeffries?"

"I felt confident before I entered the ring that I would give Jeff a great fight. The first blow he gave me, was a left hook on the jaw, was the blow that killed whatever chances I had of beating the big fellow. I never remember a thing after I got that blow. Everything was a blank to me, and when I came to in my corner and was informed by my manager that I had lost in the second round I thought my head would break."

"I will say one thing for Jeffries, he is a much faster and also a better fighter by 100 per cent. than he was the night that I boxed him in Butte. When I saw an appeal from him in my corner and was told that he had defeated three men in the same ring on the same night I am not telling an untruth. Jeffries is a wonder and there is no mistake about it."

"I will be ready to fight again in a few weeks and only hope that I will get the chance to fight him. I think I can win over him. I tried to get on a fight with Ruhlman at Butte, Mont., but the sporting men out there refused to mount a purse for it, stating that Ruhlman was not a strong enough card."

WOMAN'S ROW IN JEWELRY STORE

William Randall Caused the Arrest of Miss Elizabeth McDonald, but She Turned the Tables in Court.

William Randall, a jeweler, at No. 209 Greenwich street, ran out of his place of business to-day calling for the police. Policeman McNish, of the Church street station, heard the man's cries, and when he reached the man's residence, he found Randall to be a woman. The woman, who was wearing a woman's dress, was trying to wreck the place.

McNish found a well-dressed woman of forty-five or thereabout trying to put a telephone down and asked her to leave.

Woman Refused to Go.

"I won't," snapped the woman. "I'll just stay here as long as I please and it's nobody's business but my own. If you policemen would mind your own business you would be much better off."

McNish threw up his hands and backed away.

"Not for mine," he told Randall, who was ducking behind a showcase.

"Suppose I make a complaint?" asked Randall.

"That's different," and taking the woman and followed by Randall the alleged disturber of the jeweler's peace was led to the Church street station, where she gave the name of Elizabeth McDonald, and her address as No. 116 C Avenue, Brooklyn. She was charged with disorderly conduct.

Later Miss McDonald was arraigned before Magistrate Pool in the Tombs Court, but before any evidence was taken, an eagle-eyed court attaché had discovered a toy revolver protruding from one of Randall's rear pockets. This discovery was communicated to the Judge, who commanded Randall to take the place of the woman, whom he dismissed.

Fined by the Court.

"Fine you $5 for carrying a revolver," Mr. Randall, said the Court, suavely.

"But—but," stammered the jeweler.

"Pay your fine," and Randall obeyed. As he turned away from the clerk's desk, Elizabeth McDonald, highly pleased at the turn of affairs, laughed in his face.

JERSEY LEADS IN TRI-STATE TEAMS

Good Scores Are Made by Men from the "Skeeter" State on the Range at Sea Girt.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 4.—The attention of the military riflemen assembled here was devoted to-day to the regional team match, and eleven teams, representing New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, New Jersey, the District of Columbia and the United States Marine Corps, competed for the international trophy, medals and cash. The District of Columbia and the Marine Corps each has two teams entered and New Jersey has three teams.

At the conclusion of the firing in the first stage of the match the team representing the First New Jersey Regiment was in the lead with a total of 253 out of a possible 300. The first team of the United States Marine Corps was second with 252. The Second Ohio third with 251. The Fifth Maryland fourth with 246. The Second District of Columbia fifth with 244. The Ninth New York sixth with 243.

In addition to the regional match, firing is in progress in the Seabury and Bunker individual matches. The Schuetzen match, an all-corners continuous competition on the German rifle target, at 200 yards, was won by Owen Smith, of New Jersey. His total was 213 out of a possible 225. The nine other prize
